Editor and Manager

PAUL HARRIS,
Managing Editor

Leesburg Commercial: We drive alone a great deal, frequently on rather long and hurried trips. We have never become callous to the hitch hiker's call. Every time we drive by one with a stony stare we feel guilty of something not quite right. Yet we have learned to stee our heart against the thumber.

That thumber, pointing along the highway when you first see it, too often turns down once the owner is seated by your side in your car.

The risk is too great to ignore. We have to stop to stop and investigate the credentials of every hiker; he is too numerous.

Let's see what we risk when we pick up a stranger.

At worst, he may be a murderer, willing and anxious to make you his victim, so you risk your life.

From this the range is down to robbery in which you lose your car and valuables, besides being set out on a lonely road.

Suppose you have an accident.
Beside your own injuries and damage to your car, you may become liable to any amount of damages the hiker you picked up may claim because of injuries to him or his property.

And, at the very best, you have a companion that may be disagreeable or even obnoxious to the end of a few miles. If you wanted company that would have been an easy matter, in all the motels and hotels you have taken a friend with you on your trip.

So we may shed a mental tear for the hiker we pass as he stands with extended thumb—but we pass on and soon forget.

Punta Gorda Herald: We sympa-tize wholeheartedly with every effort to prevent war. We believe that the only way to prevent war is by a strong and united world organization, a little handful of political leaders who, by their mild entreaties, can bring about peace by means of a peaceful war, and—perhaps—by means of blooded men who figure out what would make a peaceful war possible. We believe that the only way to prevent war is by a strong and united world organization, a little handful of political leaders who, by their mild entreaties, can bring about peace by means of a peaceful war, and—perhaps—by means of blooded men who figure out what would make a peaceful war possible.

That we should make no preparation for war, merely because somebody might make a mistake in selling guns, airplanes, poison gas, and other material to the government, "in time of peace," is preparation for war. It is saying as old civilization itself. Human nature hasn't changed much in many thousands of years. One never knows when a spark may touch off the willing and eager to fight. Our nation isn't likely to pick a quarrel with any other—but unless we are prepared to defend ourselves, some other nation may try to pick a quarrel with us. The best insurance against war is a strong and united world organization. We are equipped to fight if necessary, in defense of our national rights.

Bowling Green Exponent: The new auto tag is an improvement over the old one in that it has the abbreviation of the state in larger type. It could have been a better holder type but better yet, it would have been to have retained the map of the state and used it continually every year. That would enable the traveling public to recognize our tag easier than any other.

Plant City Courier: Investigators classified 500 conversations overheard in public places to find out just what men and women talk about, in Cleveland and New York.
They found that the subjects varied little in the two cities.

Men's conversations were 48 per cent about business, 10 per cent about sports and amusements, 12 per cent about the facts of life, being the most frequent topics.

Conversations of women were most frequently about men, this topic showing great variation in the two cities, 22 per cent in Cleveland and 44 per cent in New York. Clothes were the subject of 20 per cent, and other women 15 per cent.

In mixed company, men talked most to women about amusements, next of business and money. Women conversed with men about themselves and other women.

The above results were published in a business men's magazine, and we can not say whether they were fairly represented the facts or not.
At any rate they are interesting.

What do you talk about?

There are 14,601 newspapers in the United States and Canada. A list of the 1935 Aves direct. y. of this total, 2,197 are in the 11,556 are weeklies, some dailies and tri-weeklies. Thirty-seven are classified as "penny papers."

TOO LATE

TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

In spite of the fact that Dave Kepple tells us what a heck of a tough job a governor has, how many trying problems he faces, and what a thankless task it is, the words are full of guys bragging with ambition to step into his shoes.

The way it looks now, we're gonna have a record breakin' crop of gubernatorial candidates. If we could just plow under about half of 'em it would be fine but unfortunately that's one crop there doesn't seem to be any control for.

While a lot of birds are makin' kind of "off track" race for governor right now, but hesitate to openly admit it, one chap isn't a bit of a stiff and turn the with an official announcement last week.

Carl Damm of Orlando says that none of his friends have urged him to run but he has checked the gubernatorial timber and can't figure out where any of 'em have a thing on him, so he's decided to give it a shot and may be the best man win.

Carl has managed to do pretty well for himself in the real estate business. He probably took it on the well known chin—when the whole burst but he managed to unload a lot of stuff and turn the profits into money. He claims he has enough money to run for governor and serve for one term. He never, he won't object to receiving a little assistance from friends who would accept a contribution to his campaign. He has set a limit of $25 on such donations and states he would accept a contribution from any one person. Then if he is elected and they try to put a finger in his wheel, he will make return their $25 to them and get a clean conscience.

He frankly admits that he's not a politician, points out that he has never held any kind of public office, in fact, although a Floridian for many years, he has never been to Tallahassee.

He is not a politician, Carl states he hasn't any. Furthermore he doesn't expect to make any promises, but he would like to be the most brilliant after-dinner speaker in the state and is known for and is a humorist and a good entertainer but he claims he has never made a political speech in his life.

While Carl has no platform, he does have a few personal ideas which might be done to improve conditions in the state. First of all he says he is in favor of a sales tax, believing that it is the most equitable and just form of taxation.

He is against the fee system because he thinks it is wrong to maintain a system that permits an obscure Justice of the Peace to make more money than a supreme court judge and a clerk of court to knock down more jack than we pay our governor.

This candidate says he'll probably have a lot of applications for the job of chairman of the state department but hints that under his administration this particular post won't be so important since the state department won't have so much to do. He thinks it is time to call a halt on road building that don't go anywhere. He wants to get there quicker. He points out one instance where $100,000 was spent on a 40 mile stretch in order to save four minutes running time.

Carl says he probably got a big kick out of hearing Carl's speeches than any other candidate's. His hardest task will be to get 'em to realize that he is returning the job to them in the race to win.
